The Share with Wildlife program at New Mexico Department of Game and Fish helps species that do not receive funding from any other source. The program funds projects that involve wildlife-focused research, education, habitat enhancement, and rehabilitation activities. Examples of projects funded through Share with Wildlife include wildlife species surveys, K-12 educational programs, and wildlife rehabilitation facilities that help to care for and heal sick and injured wildlife.

Share with Wildlife depends on tax-deductible donations from the public. The program matches these donations with federal funds to maximize its support of New Mexico's wildlife. Contact Karen Gaines (karenh.gaines@dgf.nm.gov) or visit www.wildlife.state.nm.us/conservation/share-with-wildlife/ for more information about the Share with Wildlife program.
